

COMMUNITY

Coalition meeting

The Historic Triangle Substance Abuse Coalition held its semiannual coalition meeting on Nov. 16, with guest speaker Delbert Boone (top picture, right), one of the nation's foremost authorities on addiction and criminal behavior. Boone assists substance abuse counselors understand the parallels between addiction and criminal behavior. Boone is pictured speaking with Robert Vermont of Bacon Street. Also at the coalition meeting, awards were presented to Stephen Chantry of WJC Schools, Janis Omide of Colonial Community Corrections, and Bob Coleman of Bacon Street for their commitments to preventing and treating substance abuse in our community during the past year. Pictured are Gina Thorne, coalition director, and Chantry, director of Student Services for WJC Schools, receiving his award.
